

To Whom It May Concern:

I write with reference to Denis Gorshkov, and Diatom Enterprises, which is domiciled in Latvia, with clients both locally and in North America.

I have known Denis and Diatom professionally and personally for nearly ten years. His company has done professional work for us on two occasions. The work was done on time, on budget, and to a North American professional standard.

I have always known Denis and his team to act professionally, and I hold them in high regard.

As an American owning an investment business in a foreign country, I am careful about the partners I choose. Although we are typically not invested in technology heavy businesses, I trust Denis as an adviser on any technical challenge we have, and as a subject matter expert whenever I am considering a new investment, or am confronted with a technology question.

Importantly, Denis has generously donated both his and Diatom Enterprises' time and expertise to support a children's charity I founded here many years ago. Without their help, our charity would not be able to function on the level it does. Their willingness to help address children's health sets an example for other businesses in Latvia, and underscores their good corporate citizenship.

Perhaps most importantly, Denis imbues his business with his personal dedication to performance, entrepreneurship, and fun. His team is well educated, and motivated. In short, they are leaders here, and deservedly so.

I recommend both Denis and Diatom Enterprise with the confidence borne of many years experience, and would happily answer any questions with regard to either Denis or Diatom.

Sincerely,

Jerry Wirth
